In an eerie echo of the past, mankind is now approaching the same level of debauchery as their antediluvian forebears. Like the evil Watchers, Nephilim and humans of the past, modern doctors and scientists are terminating pregnancies as casually as they would cut off a wart or mole, using embryonic stem cells to attempt to heal the sick and thereby murdering humans when adult stem cells would work just as well, and implanting fertilized eggs into surrogate mothers' wombs as if it were child's play. Oddly, no one seems to suspect that the scientists that create these embryos for implantation are up to no good. But how could anyone but these scientists really know if the embryos they produce via in vitro fertilization and then implant in women's wombs are fully human or not? Makes one pause to reconsider the superficially benevolent and safe label this practice currently has.

In addition to these well-documented activities that mimic the evil behavior of our antediluvian ancestors, modern scientists have successfully smashed the atom to provide nuclear power and create atomic bombs capable of wiping out all life on Earth. They have also unwisely given this knowledge to the military establishments of the world, and a few militant societies today such as North Korea and Iran are making it clear that they plan to use such destructive weapons on their heavily nuclear-armed enemies (i.e. the USA and Israel, respectively) in the very near future.

One of the worst modern abominations of God's sacred trust with mankind to remain righteous is the current scientific fascination with cloning animals and making hybrid animals from splicing the genes of various animals together. That these experiments are going on casually behind our backs is not only frightening, but inherently evil. There are also reports that ungodly hybrid plants with animal traits are already being grown and fed to both humans and livestock without our consent or permission, and without adequate studies to see what long and short term harmful affects these abominated foods may have after digesting them.

In addition, terrifying reports are being made that highly secretive experiments into recreating the Nephilim are being conducted among various governments of the world. Some report that scientists are currently mixing the genes of animals and humans in an attempt to create a new brand of Nephilim, and that these hybrid monsters may soon be used as the ultimate fighting machines in future conventional wars. Though this may not be true yet, mankind certainly has reached a knowledge threshold that makes raising the Nephilim from the dead alarmingly possible using the DNA in bones supposedly belonging to dinosaurs.

Sadly, as the above three paragraphs show, this current generation of mankind is capable of far more destruction, violence and debauchery than any previous Post-Flood generation. In fact, it is fast approaching the ability to commit violence at a comparable level to what our antediluvian ancestors engaged in before the Great Flood. This is especially true due to the unprecedented and potentially deadly technological advancements mankind has recently devised. These include multi-megaton atomic and neutron bombs, biological weapons such as genetically modified bacteria and viruses that are immune to all known drugs, the HAARP ionosphere control system built in the United States (along with smaller versions in Norway and Russia), and the series of CERN particle reactors in Europe.

Among the most frightening of these current potential threats to the existence of all life are the six atomic reactors created by CERN, which stands for the European Organization for Nuclear Research. Over the years since CERN began its operations in 1964, six atomic particle accelerators and one decelerator have been built deep underground somewhere between France and Switzerland. In addition, a seventh reactor called the Large Hadron Collider that some say has the potential to destroy or devastate the Earth in several terrifying ways was scheduled to begin operation in May 2008. This was the same month that a massive earthquake in China occurred, which killed thousands of people and left millions more homeless. Unsettlingly, though CERN's identifying logo is supposed to suggest the spinning of atoms, it looks like the number six being spun about. Could this logo be an allusion to the Mark of the Beast consisting of the number "666" that is spoken of in the Book of Revelation?

Though the technology behind these potentially destructive devices have beneficial applications, they all can just as easily be used to cause untold devastation and death around the world if they fall into the wrong hands - and the Bible warns that they will fall into evil hands when the Antichrist takes control of the world in the not too distant future! In fact, it is possible that they already have fallen into evil hands. Take, for example, the fact that many underground news sources have pinned the blame for the May 2008 earthquake that destroyed millions of buildings, killed over 80,000 people and injured as many as 300,000 individuals in central China on the US Government-controlled HAARP towers in Alaska, which may be able to control the weather by generating storms, hurricanes, and tsunamis. In addition, some say HAARP microwave technology could potentially cause earthquakes, and they suspect it of causing recent ones around the world.

Uncannily - although HAARP may indeed be capable of affecting Earth's ionosphere in a way that could cause highly destructive earthquakes - some have also pointed their fingers at CERN's Large Hadron Collider (i.e. LHC) as a potential cause of the devastating 2008 earthquake in China. If this atomic reactor, which is in a large tunnel over 328 feet (i.e. 100 meters) below the ground were to malfunction, it has such enormous power that it could cause great devastation - including earthquakes. In fact, some scientists warn that the LHC has the alarming potential to create a gaping hole in the Earth's crust by dissolving or compacting it. This in turn could trigger severe earthquakes and volcanic eruptions that might approach the destructive magnitude of those unleashed during the Great Flood. In addition, it might generate a miniature version of a phenomenon in Outer Space known as a black hole inside the Earth. If it did, this black hole might be unstoppable, and could act like a huge garbage compactor that would gradually gobble up the Earth.

In the Book of Revelation, there are descriptions of numerous plagues to be unleashed on the Earth during the Great Tribulation. Of these, many could potentially be caused by weapons of mass destruction such as those discussed in this section, which may include other even more potentially deadly top-secret weapons in undisclosed locations around the globe. Other events before and during the Tribulation are discussed in Book Four on prophecy.

After taking stock of mankind's current potential to destroy themselves and the Earth, and contemplating the enormous knowledge that the Watchers who sinned originally possessed, it is not so difficult to imagine that all fleshly creatures could have potentially been destroyed before the Great Flood if Yahweh had not put a sudden stop to their violence. Nor is it difficult to imagine that it might happen again in the very near future if God does not intervene in human affairs. In fact, Yahshua Himself warned that if He doesn't put a stop to our current love of violence with His Second Coming, no life would be able to survive it:

"For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in various places. All these are the beginning of sorrows..." "And unless those days were shortened, no flesh would be saved; but for the elect's sake those days will be shortened." - Matthew 24:7-8, 24:22 (NKJ)

Note that, in Matthew 24:7-8, Yahshua intimates that the initial famines, pestilences, and earthquakes before the Great Tribulation will be caused by nations and kingdoms rising up against one another. In other words, these plagues upon mankind will not be forces of nature or Acts of God, but artificially induced by mankind's technological tampering with natural forces, which have been secretly harnessed as weapons of war. Therefore, this passage is prophesying about this current time in history, when the CERN reactors and HAARP systems are now fully operational and capable of mass destruction.

In addition to this manmade destruction, Matthew 24:22 is alluding to the many violent and destructive Acts of God that will be poured out on mankind during the Great Tribulation. These divine acts of wrath and justice coupled with mankind's own ability to destroy will create a situation where all life could be extinguished if it were not for the mercy that God will show by prematurely ending this dire period of devastation and death.

Yes, with mankind's current knowledge of advanced technology and their constantly destructive and violent use of it, our current world is indeed becoming "as it was in the days of Noah" before the Flood, just as Yahshua stated:

"Just as it was in the days of Noah, so also will it be in the days of the Son of Man. People were eating, drinking, marrying and being given in marriage up to the day Noah entered the ark. Then the flood came and destroyed them all. It was the same in the days of Lot. People were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building. But the day Lot left Sodom, fire and sulfur rained down from heaven and destroyed them all. It *will be just like this on the day the Son of Man is revealed." -

Luke 17:26-30 (NIV)*

This Scripture makes it clear that the terrible destructive force of God's Wrath during the Great Tribulation will come upon the people of the Earth during a time of relative peace and calm, and they will not be prepared for it. Furthermore, it makes it clear that this destruction will not end until Yahshua, who is the Son of Man and Son of God, is revealed in glory at His Second Coming.

In the section entitled "Demonic Oppression and Deliverance" in Chapter Five of "The Language of God in History," it is explained that the days of Noah were marked by widespread demonic activity, and that Noah beseeched God for deliverance from the demons that were trying to destroy all mankind, especially Noah and his family. Likewise, the Tribulation Saints will be in the same position, and they will need to rely fully on God for protection from fallen angels, demons and demonically possessed people at that time if they are to survive.
